

About Cinionic

Cinionic (www.cinionic.com) is the world's leading cinema technology company. Together with our partners, we're transforming cinema, providing comprehensive WOW entertainment solutions to movie exhibitors across the globe. As Cinionic, we help turn imagination into reality and ensure peace of mind for our customers by offering innovative services and flexible use of capital for a new era. Combining the technology expertise and heritage of our partners, Cinionic powers exceptional experiences across the entire theater to engage visitors at multiple touchpoints on their cinematic journey.

Cinionic is a joint venture among Barco, Appotronics, and CFG, with offices in the US, Belgium, Hong Kong and Mexico.

Function

Supply Chain Manager

You will be responsible for

- Leading the S&OP process within our organization
- Working closely together with the sales planning and sales and service administration team to set priorities
- Defining the forecasting towards our suppliers for finished goods and spare parts
- Replacing the current Sales and Service Administration Manager during maternity leave, leading a team of five sales and service admins
- Preparing and leading the go-live of our new tools (SAP Byd and Salesforce) within the team
- Being the process and tools knowledge owner and key user before and after the go-live

Your profile

- You have a University Degree or equivalent combination of education and experience
- Our ideal candidate has a first experience in supply chain and/or sales and service administration processes
- You possess a 'customer-first' mindset and are very goal-oriented
- You like to work with different teams in order to support the customer and to achieve sales targets
- You have hands-on experience with SAP or other ERP solutions and have a proficient knowledge of MS office
- Experience with Salesforce is a plus
- You can work independently, and you have the necessary maturity and skills to communicate with customers and other (internal) stakeholders to steer the process in the correct direction
- You have an analytical mind and can make a distinction between big picture and detailed analysis
- You possess excellent organizational and multitasking skills
- You are a team player with a high level of dedication
- You can work under strict deadlines in a fast-paced environment
- You are flexible in working hours as required

- You have excellent verbal and written communication skills and possess excellent English language skills, other languages are an asset.

The offer

We offer you a fast-paced, rewarding position in a global, fast-growing company. You will join a diverse and international group of business professionals and cinema enthusiasts. Cinionic is proud to offer you a competitive salary and attractive benefits, together with continuous learning and career opportunities.

Are you ready to define the cinema of the future?

Happy to receive your curriculum vitae and motivation letter.
You can send your application to letstalkcareers@cinionic.com